Stacks the Law Firm, has changed its approach to its brand name and business structure. The group of independent legal firms that comprise the growing legal business in three States (NSW, QLD and ACT) have now determined to use the common name “Stacks the Law Firm” with standard colour and design in signage, legal and business documents.

Our three offices at Murwillumbah, Tweed Heads and Surfers Paradise remain as a group controlled by Principal, Tony Smith. The offices are all called “Stacks the Law Firm” at Murwillumbah/Tweed Heads and Surfers Paradise.

There is a further innovation, namely, the group has incorporated a further legal practice, known as Stacks Business Pty. Ltd. It is owned by all the principals of the Stacks Firms. This is the vehicle for tendering for business in any of the three States the group has existing practices.

For example, in the past few months “Stacks Business” successfully tendered for the business of “Homeworld” in Sydney.

Our Tweed Heads Office, particularly involving our Tony Mitchell has been engaged by “Stacks Business” to carry out a restructuring and advice in respect of the initial part of the work required under the successful tender. This is a tender no one office could have fully serviced but as a group “Stacks Business” can at a competitive rate.

The ability of the group to co-ordinate the breadth of legal talent and knowledge throughout the various offices enables the Firms to share not just legal expertise but fees as well. What is being offered is a first class legal service equal to that of any of the large city firms at a more affordable price.

The recent seminar at Tweed Council Chambers conducted by our Tony Smith and Mark Delany on changes to the Planning regime with Join Regional Planning Panels and the new regime for charging developer contributions, was addressed also by another of Stacks Local Government Solicitors, Digby Dunn from Forster office.

This collaboration extends to all our major areas of practice, such as Commercial/Conveyancing, Family Law, Personal Injury Compensation, Wealth Protection, Probate Litigation and general Litigation across the board.

It is the reason we can boast to be “Expert, Cost Effective and Friendly”.
